James Cavuoto is a hard-working business owner and community activist who devotes as much energy to progressive causes as he does to profit-making ventures. The founder and president of Micro Publishing, Press, Inc., a Torrance technology magazine publishing company, he helped launch a local desktop publishing industry in Southern California. He also spent three years in the aerospace industry as a member of the technical staff and corporate communications editor at Hughes Aircraft Company. In his community, he’s been a vocal crusader for human rights, freedom of expression, and government reform. He’s volunteered his time on behalf of local libraries, regional occupational centers, homeless organizations, and the local Democratic party. With your help, he’ll stand up for South Bay businesses and people in the U.S. Congress.
James Cavuoto will bring business and technology leadership to Washington

James Cavuoto has a good understanding of small business. He helped launch the digital graphics industry in Southern California.

— Steaven Chan
President, Star Link Co. Inc.
Torrance

James Cavuoto has the integrity, entrepreneurial skills, and creative thinking we need in Congress. I fully support his plan to build new technology industries in the South Bay to replace our dependence on the defense industry.

— Dr. Theodore H. Maiman
Former vice-president, TRW Inc., and inventor of first laser

James Cavuoto understands the potential of the new media and digital content industries. And he's a strong advocate for home-based workers and businesses.

— Ken Newburg
Co-owner, Eye Four Color
Marina del Rey

James Cavuoto will help expand the Internet and new media industry in the South Bay. And he understands how to nurture start-up businesses.

— Maureen Backe
President, mb digital marketing (www.mbdigital.com)
Redondo Beach
James Cavuoto will stand up for progressive causes in our community

James Cavuoto is a successful businessperson, a compassionate participant in the South Bay community, and a sensitive leader.

— Rev. Fran Materra
Pastor, St. Paul’s United Methodist Church
Redondo Beach

James Cavuoto has the insight and integrity to reform politics. And his CAMPAIGN re FUNDS idea is an effective and innovative way of raising money for schools.

— Angelina Gomez Moller
President
Centinela Valley Union High Board of Education

James Cavuoto has not forgotten what it means to be a Democrat. He’s the candidate in favor of true campaign finance reform, not the one taking money from the defense industry.

— Clifford Tasner
Campaign Finance Reform Chair
Southern California Americans for Democratic Action

James Cavuoto’s stand on human rights, including his opposition to the death penalty, demonstrates he’s not afraid to stand up for what’s right. That kind of courage is not just uncommon among politicians today, it’s unheard of.

— Mike Farrell
Actor/human rights activist

Organizations listed for identification purposes only.
Visit the League of Women Voters Education Fund web site, www.dnet.org, to see which candidate for Congress has the best positions on the issues!